But, although fireat liritain is on top in the negotiations, it is far down in the United States Senate.

Customs Duties Do Not Increase Prices. Senator Brown, of Georgia, in a recent argument for the repeal of the internal vevenue taxes, said that an "eminent revenue reformer" had lately declared that the duty levied on imported goods was a tax raid by the consumer, which proposition Senator Brown vigorously compatted. As an illustration that a duty is not a tax paid by the consumer, but one divide line-tween blm and the producer is the biguring of the duty, and finally paid entirely by the producer, we take the duty on pig

In leat the duty on p'g from was 190 per ton, and the average price of the imports that fiscal year was $14.04 per ton. In 1834 the duty was raised to $9 per top, and the importations cost an average of $13,60, Thus it will be seen that with a duty of $0 per ion the average cost to the consumer would be $2001, while, with a duty of st per ton, the average cost to the consumer was jul 60. This shows that while the duty riax, as that eminent revenue reformers DALTCalle it, was increased $1 the consumer cally paid $1 56 on this increase, the pri-ducer paying the remainder.

heatise which, it is a notorious fact, that when home production is fostered to such an extent that the market is principally supplied by the home products, the foreign manufacturer reduces his prices, so that siter paying the duty no matter what I may be, he is enabled to import into our market and compete with our home manu-

This is often done at a serious loss to the foreign manufacturer, and continued, if possible, until the competition of the home manufacturer is broken down, and then the foreigner raises his prices to make up for the losses previously entailed. On this subject we refer to the following report, made ty Nr. H. Seymour Tremenheere, a comn lastoner appointed by the English parliament to bequire into the condition of the mining districts of Great Britain in 1851.

I believe that the laboring classes generally in the manufacturing districts of this country, and especially in the iron and coal districts are very little aware of the extent to which they are often indebted for their being em-ployed at all to the famouse force which their employers voluntarity incur in 1864 times in destroy foreign competition and to can and keep possession of foreign markets Authorite instruces are well known of em-ployers having in such times cerried on their works at a loss amounting in the aggregate to three of four hundred thousand pounds in the country of the many years.

As for back as 1816 Lord Brougham said and a house of commons :

Take the case of bar from in the years 181, 182, and 1830, when the tasks of 1816, 1826, and 1830 were in full operation. I required the price current in Bostom, and wheel for an example "Old Sable," In like the duty was to per ton, and the price, in-chaling the duty, $105. In 1826, duty, $15; price, including duty, $130. In 1826, duty, $22.50;price, including duty, $20. This, while the duty has been a astauly increasing, the race of the article taxed has been cons fart is true—the domestic article has been in creating in clantity. Suppose the foreign manufacturer turnished three-fourths of your customption, the greater quantity would com-ment the price, and shie tax would fall on the consumer. But let the domestic product in-crease to one-half the competition between the producer and the evisamen. Let the domeetle product be three fourths, and your own producer governs the whole market, and the foreign producer hears the tax, or overly \oplus_{λ} "Neverue reformers," whether "em' ent" or otherwise, should spend some of their leisure bours studying the element ary works upon trade and commerce before engaging in assertions that a reasonably well-informed highschool boy could withou any trouble refute. They depend too month upon the sophumoric teachings of the Cobden Club leafiets, and that club depends upon its imagination for its facts and its memory for its anecdotes.

Another Free Trade Biast. As seen as it was known that the Demoratic Committee had confirmed the Prestdent's request to have his convention held in St. Louis. Mayor Francis, of that city. telegraphed the President as follows: Congratulations to you and the Democrati arry on time and location of convention at t. Louis. It means the fight will be made
